

The Corps announces CEO – Richard Moule

The Corps is pleased to announce the appointment of Richard Moule as Chief Executive Officer.

After graduating from Strathclyde Business School, Richard began his career in hotel management before progressing into corporate facilities management. After managing a number of Rentokil Initial's facilities services businesses, Richard took on the top job at Initial Security Limited, spearheading the company's licensing process and instrumental in their achieving SIA Approved Company status.

Richard then led Initial Security through the sale of the business to Mitie in 2006 before joining The Corps.

Richard has been in post since January: "I have been impressed with the ability and potential within the company. The Corps is one of the industry's best kept secrets. I now relish the challenge of establishing The Corps as the security provider of choice."

By continuing to develop the established 'people first' approach and further investing in systems and technology, the focus of the management team is on customer service and staff development as well as on the further development of its solutions offering.

For more information please contact: info@the-corps.co.uk